

NEWHOUSE WILL BUILD THEATRE

Closes Deal With Beck for Vaudeville House at State St. and Exchange Place.

COST WILL BE $200,000

ANOTHER STRATEGIC FACTOR IN NEW BUSINESS DISTRICT.

Samuel Newhouse has closed a deal with Martin Beck of the Orpheum vaudeville circuit to build a $200,000 theatre at State and Exchange Place.

Work upon the playhouse will commence as soon as possible.

Samuel Newhouse has turned theatre builder.

Through the quickness and decision with which Mr. Newhouse handles the business problems presented to him, the long discussion concerning the site of the new Orpheum theatre was brought to an abrupt end yesterday, when Mr. Newhouse closed a deal with the representatives of Martin Beck, the New York theatrical manager, by which a $200,000 theatre will be erected at State and Exchange Place.

This will be close to the site of the new Auerbach theatre on Third South street, between Main and State streets, and the building of the two playhouses in that district, it is said, will be followed by the construction of other structures of a costly nature. It is now believed that the eagerness of John J. Daly to purchase the property at Fourth South and State streets was due to a belief that the wave of building activity on lower Main street would sweep eastward to State.

The new Orpheum theatre will cost $200,000 and will occupy the southeast corner of State and Exchange Place. This is part of the Newhouse property.

Mr. Newhouse has already asked Henry Ives Cobb and Ware & Treganza to submit plans for the theatre building.

Will Help New District.

It will be a six or seven-story building of the Italian renaissance style of architecture. In planning the structure the chief idea will be to make it a perfectly equipped playhouse. After that, the problem of making the most profitable use of superfluous space will be taken up.

The theatre will be 96x152 feet, with entrances on both State and Exchange Place.

It will be a vaudeville house, and the Orpheum attractions will be presented there. The present Orpheum theatre will be used for the presentation of musical comedies after the completion of the new home of vaudeville.

It is believed that Mr. Newhouse's chief idea in entering the building project with Martin Beck was not the desire to share the profits from the new playhouses, but to add to the life of the lower business district.

Work upon the new theatre will be commenced as quickly as possible. Every effort will be made to have it completed in time for the opening of the winter amusement season.

With the Auerbach $150,000 theatre under way, and the definite announcement of the Newhouse-Beck theatre, it is considered probable that there will be any other theatre building in Salt Lake this year.

St. George Boosters Want Premiums for Grindstones.

What? No premiums for grindstones?

This dire oversight in the premium list of the Utah State Fair association was called to the attention of Secretary Horace Ensign yesterday in a letter he received from the Washington County Commercial club of St. George. The St. George boosters explained that the best grindstones in the world are now being made in the vicinity of St. George and that an exhibit will be sent to the state fair. A premium for grindstones was asked for.

The Brigham Young university at Provo asked for all the space the fair association could spare for a large educational exhibit.

From Tooele county came a request for a premium for flowers. Tooele will send a fine floral exhibit.

P. O. DEPARTMENT OF CLEM SCHRAMM A HOT COMPETITOR OF UNCLE SAM

F. C. Schramm is to be a postmaster. Not real, sure enough postmaster for the whole city, but just a sort of branch postmaster of a branch postoffice, where he will serve under the general direction of the postal grand master of Salt Lake, Arthur L. Thomas.

Mr. Schramm's postoffice will be in the room adjoining his drug store in the McCormick building, now used as a coal office. The sub-station, as it is officially designated, will be established on July 12. Mr. Schramm is anxious, it is understood, to have the postoffice named Wherethecarstopville.

Mr. Schramm intends to introduce a number of novel features, which he hopes will attract patronage. He expects to make at least two trips yearly to New York so as to be able to get the very latest designs in stamps, in style, shading and material. He intends also to buy largely, so as to obtain better rates, and thus be able to sell at lower prices than other branch offices. One thing he intends to insist upon—there shall be no substitution in his postoffice.

If a customer asks for a two-cent stamp, he can feel assured that an equal number of some Brazilian issue, worth a quarter of a mile, will not be passed off on him. Neither will the customer be told something like this: "We are just out of American two-cent stamps, but we have a fine line of new Cubans just in that are really a trifle cheaper."

Mr. Schramm hopes to build up a fair trade in stamps ultimately by giving the business his personal attention combined with liberal advertising of the advantages his office offers. One of the first innovations to be introduced will be a western adaptation of the Oriental letter writer. A capable typewriter will be employed by him for the benefit of those who patronize his stamp window, so that on the warm days of summer a customer may sit at the desk, while Schramm is cooling drinks while dictating letters.

theory of these gossips is that the federal officers are anxious to close up the business so that it may become a part of the record and the expense of the last year, instead of permitting it to run into the next fiscal year. How much of truth there is in this talk, of course, cannot be stated, if, indeed, there is any. The fact remains, however, that there is a general air of expectancy about the building, and a well defined belief that the report of the jury will be forthcoming within a day or two.

Great secrecy has been attached to a handwriting expert from San Francisco, whose name is Theodore Kytha when he is at home in California, but whose name, when he is at the Wilson hotel, is entirely different. This handwriting expert gave testimony yesterday before the grand jury. John O'Connell, a local accountant, was also recalled. J. Nat. Londoner, commonly called "Doc" Londoner, attached to the Pinkerton detective service, was also a witness. Londoner has been at work on the bank robbery case since the theft was discovered.

WEBER REFUSES TO MAKE SPEECH

Failure of "American" Champion to Talk Causes Disappointment at Lagoon.

HIERARCH ESCAPES LASH

OUTING IS ATTENDED BY LARGE NUMBER.

The hierarch escaped a most severe lambasting yesterday. The escape was miraculous, as it was only due to the fact that Andrew Jackson Weber refused to make a speech at the "American" party outing at Lagoon.

Andrew Jackson Weber having been in the forenoon nominated for the position of district attorney by his party, it was thought he would sound the keynote of the campaign. People expected he would tell about his plans if elected and a large and expectant multitude waited for him to orate. But Andrew Jackson Weber would not orate.

The speakingman was scheduled to come off at 8:30 o'clock. Osgood Hiles and Mr. Weber were advertised as the orators. Hiles did not show up, being too busy declining the nomination of judge, but Weber was there.

At about 8 o'clock a delegation of frank committee-men went out on a still hunt for him. He could not be located for a long time, but finally George H. Hancock, a vigilant "American" discovered him in the "Sands" cafe eating dinner with his family.

"Will you speak?" asked George.

"I will not," said Mr. Weber.
